FOREWORD

Welcome to our October Premier auction where you will find a good selection of very desirable coins, due to scarcity or condition, or both! The star of the sale is undoubtedly the 1797 Soho Mint penny struck in gold - one of only two known original strikes, it is in exceptional condition and has an impressive pedigree dating back to 1871. This is a rare opportunity to acquire a masterpiece of the Soho Mint.

The comparatively small Islamic section includes a large number of rarities, in particular pieces issued by the Abbasid rulers al-Rashid and al-Ma'mun. The first item offered among the English coins is a Danelaw penny dating to c.890, of which the obverse and reverse dies are unrecorded; it is one of only three of that type available to collectors. We are also offering two rare sovereigns of Henry VIII and a very attractive rose ryal of James I. The English milled section is particularly strong in high-end coins, among them two James II 5 guinea pieces, a 2 guineas of William and Mary, a William IV pattern crown with raised W WYON, and proof five pound pieces of Victoria, 1893, and George V. Finally, items of note among the Foreign coins are an Australian set comprising proof florin, shilling, sixpence and threepence, 1934, as well as four Portuguese reais grossi, two extremely rare Swiss coins - a 4 ducats of Bern and a 2 ducats of Zurich - and an American silver dollar, 1796.

If you are unable to attend the sale, you can bid through our website www.bsjauctions.com or our app, or leave bids via www.sixbid.com or www.numisbids.com

BRITISH COINS

1025. Danelaw, Five Boroughs, penny, imitation of London Monogram type A of Alfred the Great, c.890, moneyer not named, coarse style, type E, XLƿ D' EDREX, F inverted, diademed bust r., rev. monogram with inverted N and L, wt. 1.30gms. (MacKay Danelaw E, obverse similar to coin 5.1, die combination 5, O5/R5 – see plate 6, no. 95; S.964; cf. N.463), peck marks on reverse, face not struck up, extremely fine, extremely rare £16,000-20,000

Found 2020, recorded with the Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge, EMC 2020.0234.

This coin belongs to a group of coarse-style Viking imitations of the London-issued Monogram coins of Alfred the Great, struck in the Danelaw c.885-90. MacKay, in his Corpus of London Monogram Coins of Alfred the Great and the Danelaw (BNJ 89, 2019), noted fourteen examples of Danelaw E pence struck from twelve die combinations. Of these, twelve are in institutional collections and this new coin is one of just three of this type available to collectors.

This new coin adds another die combination with neither the obverse nor reverse die recorded. Die duplication in the Danelaw imitation series is unusual. The majority of Danelaw E coins, nine, derive from the Cuerdale 1840 hoard. A single coin, MacKay Danelaw E, coin 5.1, BMA.445, derives from the Stamford 1902 hoard, with deposition c.890. The obverse of this is of a similar style, but not from the same die as this new coin. This, and the presence of a similar coin in the Stamford 1902 hoard, suggests this new coin is from the same source of production and this allows the coin to be attributed to the North East Midlands/Lincolnshire and dated to c.890.

1026. Edward III, fourth coinage, treaty period (1361-1369), noble, London, group A, king with sword and shield stg. facing in ship, saltire (indistinct) before EDWARD, below the fold of the sail, rev. ornate cross, E in centre, wt. 7.8gms. (S.1502; N.1231; Lawrence 1; Schneider 75), a well-struck example, nearly extremely fine £3000-4000

1027. Edward IV, first reign, light coinage (1464-1470), ryal, continental imitation of London type, king with sword and shield stg. facing in ship, E on banner at stern, rev. rose upon radiate sun in centre of ornate cross, wt. 7.57gms. (S.1952), practically extremely fine, on a full round flan £2500-3500

1028. Henry VIII, second coinage (1526-1544), sovereign, mm. lis over sunburst/lis, crowned figure facing, of king seated on narrow throne, flanked by two pillars, portcullis at feet, holding ornate sceptre in r. hand and orb in l., saltire stops in legend, rev. shield of arms at centre of full-blown rose, double tressure, saltire stops, wt. 15.34gms. (S.2267; N.1782; Schneider 570, same obverse die/ 571, same reverse die), a fine crack follows the line of the sceptre, good very fine with strong portrait and details, rare £32,500-37,500

*ex Spink Auction 13014, 24-25 September 2013, lot 539

1029. Henry VIII, third coinage (1544-1547), sovereign, Tower mint, type II, mm. small lis both sides, king seated facing, on wide throne, with high curved back and angel supporters, Tudor rose below, rev. crowned shield with lion and griffin supporters, HR below, no A in TRANSIENS, wt. 12.72gms. (S.2290; N.1824; Schneider 608, same dies), very fine and rare £22,000-26,000

*ex Spink Auction 14006, 22 September 2014, lot 53

1030. Elizabeth I, seventh issue, crown, mm. 1 (1601-1602), crowned bust l., with orb and sceptre, rev. shield of arms over long cross fourchée (S.2582; N.2012), certified and graded by NGC as Fine 12 £450-650

1031. James I, second coinage, unite, mm. rose (1605-1606), crowned second bust r., holding orb and shouldering sceptre, rev. crowned shield of arms, IR at sides (S.2618; N.2083), certified and graded by PCGS as Genuine, Tooled - About Uncirculated Details £1800-2000

1032. James I, third coinage, rose ryal, mm. spur rowel (1619-1620), crowned figure of king enthroned facing slightly to l., holding orb and sceptre, feet resting on portcullis, throne with ornamented back, rev. long cross fourchée over shield of arms, mark of value above, all within ornate border with lis, leopards and roses around, wt. 12.25gms. (S.2632; N.2108; Schneider II, 77, same dies), slightest of crease marks, a full and well-centred coin, good very fine £24,000-28,000

Nimrod Collection

This magnificent coin represents the finest possible presentation of the coinage that ushered in the modern era of British coinage. Normally this style of penny is seen in copper or bronzed copper state, the best of those being proofs made by the Soho Mint for collectors. In gold, the design is breathtaking. The question arises of why it exists, why any were struck in gold. There appears to be no evidence, aside from the coin itself, that its purpose was exactly as stated above—a special presentation—made on order by Matthew Boulton for an otherwise unknown reason. Boulton was clearly grateful to members of the Privy Council's Committee on Coinage which, after seeing samples of earlier patterns made by the Soho Mint, recommended in March 1797 that King George III or his regent should instruct his government to enter into a contract with Boulton and Watt, owners of the Soho manufactory, to mint coppers that would defy counterfeiting.

The historical setting is well known but bears repeating here. Copper coins had not been produced since the Royal Mint issues of the 1750s and 1770s, which created a surfeit of the smallest pieces of money that was not exhausted for nearly half a century. The problem, though, was that copying the genuine coins was not difficult, and by 1787 the Mint reported that only 8 per cent of the coin then in circulation 'had some tolerable resemblance to the king's coin' (noted Peck, p. 214). The passage of stricter laws was to no avail because it was nearly impossible in court to prove that samples of fake coins were made by those accused of making them; consequently, the copiers produced what was called 'swarms' of fake farthings and halfpennies (often made from melted real coppers using diluted metal). The seemingly inevitable result was the issuing of private tokens by tradesmen, most manufactured in Birmingham and of good copper. Most were handsome halfpennies but none had any official value. While the numerous counterfeits were generally traded by the public, it was clear to the government that a real solution needed to be reached. It was at this point that the Privy Council engaged the Soho Mint. Boulton stated that his manufactory could produce coins larger than halfpennies, of fine quality, and impossible to counterfeit, even though no larger denomination had ever been issued in copper, the reason being the difficulty of making lasting dies. The Royal Mint argued in favour of only making farthings and halfpennies. The Coinage Committee, however, countered, recommending that Soho should be directed to make the larger denominations which they had suggested—pennies and even two-penny pieces—so as not to drive the two smaller denominations out of circulation until Soho had proven itself capable of meeting its intentions. To frustrate any naysayer in the government who might seek to deny his application, Boulton even went a step further, promising to deliver his coins (for a fee) in casks across the kingdom, whereas the Royal Mint had always provided them to merchants and banks only at the Tower. The result was the creation of the first-ever, now-famous copper penny in 1797, as well as the massive twopence. Minting began in June 1797, with the first pennies appearing in July 1797 and twopences dated 1797 being released in January 1798. All deliveries of the new coins were completed by August 1799. While the new copper pennies were instantly pleasing and impressive, the double-sized two-penny coins seemed mostly to exist as advertisements of Soho's capabilities, yet many entered commerce. The quality of the new coinage was undeniable; the coins were eagerly accepted and used by the public, even the big twopences. At the same time as the last delivery was made, the coinage committee recommended that Soho should also strike new farthings and halfpennies—the workhorse coins of commerce. Halfpennies and farthings were produced in larger quantities but did not appear in commerce for another two years. All quickly replaced the old-style copper issues of the Royal Mint, and stopped the counterfeiting. These ventures of the Soho Mint revolutionized the nation's most used money.

We do not know if this gold proof penny, as the first of its kind ever made in Great Britain, was given to a member of Parliament or of the Coinage Committee, or even to someone in or close to the royal family, but it is a distinct possibility as its provenance has not been traced, yet, earlier than 1871. What a joy it would be to discover this lost fact!

There are four specimens, of which two are Taylor restrikes and two are late Soho, of which this is by far the finer. The other example was in the Farouk sale and is in fine condition, having been used as a pocket piece.

Joseph Neeld (1789–1856), was MP first for the rotten borough of Gatton, Surrey [1830], then for Chippenham, Wilts. [1832-1856]. He was educated at Harrow and became a Governor. His wealth, from an £800,000 inheritance from the silversmith Philip Rundell, his great uncle, contributed to two scholarships a year for £30 to run for three years that he founded in 1840. In 1851 he established a gold medal for the 'Best proficient in Mathematics'. It was first awarded the following year and Coutts Trotter was the second recipient in 1853. Coutts Trotter became a Lyon Scholar in 1854. Coutts Trotter (1837-1887), a physicist and academic administrator, attended Trinity College Cambridge where, later, he was appointed Vice-Master, in 1885. (Further biographical details are sold with the lot).

End of Sale

(1) Baldwin's of St. James's Limited [the Company] acts as agent for the seller. Sales made by the Company at public auction are sales made on behalf of the seller.

(2) The buyer of any lot will be the highest bidder. In the event of any dispute, the auctioneer shall have absolute discretion to settle the dispute as he thinks best; this may mean re-offering the lot for sale.

(3) The auctioneer shall have absolute discretion to divide any lot, combine two or more lots or withdraw any lot or lots without giving any reason. In the case of a dispute, he may re-offer a lot for sale. The auctioneer also has the right to refuse any bid or bids without giving a reason.

(4) The Company and auctioneer shall have absolute discretion to refuse admission to their premises or attendance at their auction of any person they deem unsuitable, without giving any reason for, or prior notice of, their action.

(5) The minimum increment between bids will normally be 5%. The auctioneer has the right to refuse any bid which is not in line with this increase. He also has absolute discretion to vary this increment as he sees fit.

(6) All lots are subject to a Buyer's Premium of 20.00%, exclusive of VAT, (24% inclusive of VAT if the buyer is resident in the EU). The symbol 'G' appearing next to a lot indicates the item is 'Investment Gold' and therefore a VAT-registered trader can submit a claim to HM Revenue and Customs to recover the VAT element of the Buyer's Premium. In the case of a lot marked with a dagger (†), import VAT at 5% will be added to the hammer price and will be payable by the buyer if resident in the EU. If the lot is being exported outside the EU, this import VAT can be waived or refunded on proof of export.

(7) Each bidder shall be deemed to act as principal unless the Company acknowledges in writing prior to the auction that he acts as agent for a named third-party principal. For bidders unable to attend the auction in person, commissions will be executed free-of-charge. Such bids must be written and must be received at least 24 hours before the sale begins. The Company cannot guarantee to execute bids received less than 24 hours before the sale. 'Buy' bids will not be accepted. The Company shall not be liable for any errors or omissions in executing such commissions.

(8) All buyers must, if requested, notify their name and address to the auctioneer and, if required, provide additional proof of identification, bank references or other credit references. All buyers must pay the full purchase price, at the point of collection of purchases, or a fractional deposit as may be determined at the auctioneer's discretion, unless the Company has previously arranged credit terms. Seven working days must be allowed for clearance of personal cheques before delivery can be made unless a prior agreement has been reached. A 2.5% surcharge will be applied to all credit card payments.

(9) Ownership of lots does not pass to the buyer until the Company has received payment in full.

(10) All lots, however, are held to be at the buyer's risk from the fall of the hammer. All lots shall be removed by the buyer within seven working days after the date of the sale. Any lots not so removed may become liable to removal, insurance and storage charges. Such lots may, at the auctioneer's discretion, be re-offered for sale at auction or by private treaty without further notice to the buyer.

(11) All lots are offered for sale subject to any reserve price that may be imposed by the seller. The seller may not subsequently change the reserve without the agreement of the Company. Where a reserve has been set, only the auctioneer may bid on behalf of the seller. Lots are normally reserved at 80% of lower estimate, with auctioneer's discretion. Unless reoffered for sale, the collection of unsold lots shall be the responsibility of the seller.

(12) (a) Lots are sold as shown with all faults, imperfections and errors of description and lack of authenticity. The Sale of Goods Act 1979 does not apply to the sale of any lot. Neither the Company nor the seller shall give any warranty to any buyer in respect of any lot or be liable for any fault or error of description or lack of genuineness or authenticity of any lot. All statements as to items sold, whether made in catalogues, during the course of the auction or otherwise, are statements of opinion only and are not and shall not be taken to be statements or representations of fact. The Company reserve the right in forming their opinion to consult and rely upon any expert or authority considered by them to be reliable. Coins are graded to accepted UK standards to the best ability of our specialists. You acknowledge that the grading of coins is subjective and may vary from specialist to specialist, as the process is by nature an art and not a science. For this reason, we do not automatically accept and are not bound by the opinions of third party coin grading services for any purposes including before and after the sale of a lot.

(b) Refund policy – notwithstanding the foregoing, if any lot should be proved by the buyer to be not genuine or authentic, or to have been wrongly described in any material respect, the buyer may reject the same provided that he has given notice in writing of his intention so to do and shall have returned the same to the Company within one month from, and in the same condition, as at the date of sale. If the coin was in a plastic holder at the time of sale, we cannot accept its return if it has been removed from that holder. In addition, any items in graded holders are sold as is and can only be returned if deemed as fake. The onus of proving a lot to be not genuine or authentic or to have been wrongly described shall lie with the buyer. Proof of the inability of any recognised expert or authority to express a definite opinion shall not discharge such onus. If the buyer shall discharge such onus, the auctioneers shall rescind the sale and repay to the buyer the price paid by him. Save as provided herein, the Company shall not under any circumstances whatsoever be liable for any costs, expenses or damages (whether direct, indirect, special or consequential) incurred or suffered by the buyer in respect of any lot, whether or not as a result of any fault, imperfection, error or description or lack of genuineness or authenticity, including but not limited to loss of any kind of profit whatsoever. The buyer will not be entitled to claim interest on the amount due to him. The buyer shall not be entitled to a refund for any lot for any reason save as set out in this clause 12(b).

(13) Save as provided in the preceding paragraph of these conditions buyers must satisfy themselves as to the accuracy of their purchases at the time of delivery. The Company cannot be held responsible for any discrepancy which might be discovered after the lots have been removed from either the auction room or the auctioneers' premises.

(14) As stated in paragraph (1), the Company acts solely as agent between buyer and seller and shall not be held responsible for any default by either party or for any action or claim that may arise in connection with any lot.

(15) Any part of the purchase price still outstanding after the auction, in line with the terms of paragraph (8), shall be paid in full within thirty days of the date of the auction. Without prejudice to any other rights, the Company reserves the right to charge interest on any overdue payment at a rate of three per cent per month. In the event that the company shall have paid the seller (normally 35 days after the sale) and part of the purchase price is still outstanding, title to the lot will pass to the Company. The Company shall then have the right to sell any other goods belonging to the buyer and held by the Company for whatever reason at such a price that the company, in its absolute discretion, thinks fit. The buyer shall also reimburse the Company for any additional costs incurred in this process.

(16) Buyers accepting commissions from third parties do so at their own risk. They remain responsible to the Company for full settlement according to these conditions

(17) Privacy Policy - We may collect and process information you give to us such as your name, address and references. We will use this information to carry out our obligations arising from any contracts entered into between you and us and to provide you with the information, products and services that you request from us or that we offer. We may share your personal information with any member of our group, which means our subsidiaries, our ultimate holding company and its subsidiaries, as defined in section 1159 of the UK Companies Act 2006. We may share your information with selected third parties including: business partners, advertisers and analytics. We may disclose your personal information to third parties in the event we sell or buy any business or assets in which case we may disclose your personal data to the prospective seller or buyer or such business or assets or if we are under a duty to disclosure or share your personal data in order to comply with any legal obligation or in order to enforce or apply our terms of use. You have the right to ask us not to process your personal data for marketing purposes.

(18) By making a bid, the buyer acknowledges his acceptance of these conditions and agrees to be bound by them.

(19) If any buyer fails to comply with any of these Conditions, the lot or lots in respect of which the failure is made may at the discretion of the Company be put up again and resold. The damages recoverable from the defaulting buyer shall include, but not be limited to, the auctioneers' expenses and commission in respect of the resale and the amount (if any) by which the price obtained on the resale is exceeded by that obtained on the first sale.

(20) A variation of these Conditions shall only be binding on the Company and the seller if it is made in writing and signed by a duly authorised representative of the Company.

(21) These Conditions shall take effect and be construed in accordance with the provisions of English law.
